

MOON MIST MANOR

BY KERRY EVELYN

Small-Town Cozy with Magic Elements

Part of the Cat's Paw Cove Multi-Author Series

In the Cat's Paw Cove harbor, five islands form the pad and toe beans of a cat's paw. The large island is a protected home to magical and mystical beings, in the care of a family of Native Americans who moved out to the island in the early 1700s. A lighthouse stands guard on the northernmost of the toe bean islands, and the other three are privately owned.

On Guinevere Island, surrounded by an enchanted mist, sits the town's oldest resort. Built in the mid-1800s by Native Americans and British settlers, Moon Mist Manor is a luxury destination unlike any other. Those born on the island and a select few entrusted with the secret can see and hear the beings that have made a home on this sacred land.

But visitors beware—unseen forces and intruders are continually battling the island's defenses for a place to call their own ... and its very existence.
